

CLA Interns Organize Lunch & Learn

CLA interns Cory Harris and Jared Henderson organized a lunch and learn event at the CLA offices on June 13 for D.C. interns who are interested or currently working in agriculture. During the lunch, CropLife Foundation's Leonard Gianessi presented his talk "The Importance of Pesticides in Feeding the World." Cory and Jared hosted the event as part of a series of social and professional networking opportunities they hope to coordinate throughout the summer. They located contact information and reached out to more than 50 interns from across the city and all areas of the ag industry. Some of the groups represented at the Lunch & Learn included the Agricultural Retailers Association; American Farm Bureau Federation; Animal Agriculture Alliance; EPA's Office of Water; Land O' Lakes; NASDA; National Association of Wheat Growers; National Corn Growers Association; National Pork Producers Council; National Turkey Federation; and the U.S. Grains Council.

Interns at Lunch & Learn

Leonard Gianessi with ag interns from around D.C.