

Foundation Presentation at Annual Plant Pathology Meeting

On August 11, Leonard presented his talk on feeding the world with a focus on the importance of fungicides to a standing room only audience at the 2013 Annual Meeting of the American Phytopathological Society (APS) in Austin, TX. Interest in Leonard's talk was stimulated by APS committee discussions earlier in the day that focused on potential regulatory concerns and the need for quantitative crop impact estimates regarding plant pathogens. EPA's Paul Lewis provided an update in the committee discussions regarding regulatory issues concerning endocrine disrupters. Also participating in the committee discussions were Syngenta's Beth Carroll and Eric Tedford.
